Introduction

Training and coaching have been essential tasks of the EMS Officer. Training is defined as the process of achieving proficiency through instruction and hands-on practice in the operation of equipment and systems that are expected to be used in performance of assigned duties.

Directions

Using the four-step method, describe how you as an EMS officer will prepare and deliver training to your crew or agency in the following instances:

Activity

1. You have noticed that in the previous last two shifts, your crew has had some issues with patient assessment. During your last shift, a nurse in the Emergency Department brought to your attention that the crew had missed an injury to the patient's leg.

2. Your Agency has just received a grant and was able to purchase a CPR compression device. Your Chief has asked you to put together an in-service training for all 47 members of your Agency.

3. The Department is going to a new ePCR system. You have been asked to put together training for this new system. It needs to be done in 2 hours or less.
